

What are your dreams made of?

When we set out to design our memory foam mattresses our commitment was to use the most environmentally friendly processes and products available on the market. We screen everything through our three part "Green Process Product" standards of Sustainable Products, Clean Air Production and Earth Friendly practices.

Serenity SERIES

"We guarantee this product is a "Green Process Product" which means the memory foam was manufactured using a plant based formulation and converted without any air emissions. Also, as part of our effort to reduce landfill and other environmental impacts, we have used recycled and rapidly renewable materials. We appreciate that you are doing your part in being environmentally responsible in purchasing this EcoMemoryFoam Product."

Green Process Product

The Serenity Mattress Series are Green Process Products. This product has less impact on the landfills by using biodegradable products and rapidly renewing materials. EcoMemoryFoam uses a 100% natural petroleum substitute in manufacturing the memory foam and is processed in a zero emissions chamber. There are also fewer chemicals and less energy used in the refining process. Our unique shipping process is environmentally friendly because the transportation footprint uses a fraction of the normal truck space and therefore saves fuel and reduces emissions. All these efforts reflect our commitment to help "Renew the Earth."

EcoMemoryFoam

Introducing the first plant based memory foam product made in the U.S.A. The patented production process of our EcoMemoryFoam creates the most breathable memory foam on the market and will help you sleep cooler. You will experience less tossing and turning because our luxurious memory foam gently contours to your body which relieves pressure and increases circulation offering a deeper night's sleep. When you sleep on this product you will "Refresh the Body."

Neutral Posture Support System

The seven zones are scientifically designed to help you sleep in the most natural position by supporting the lumbar area which relieves back stress. The Neutral Posture Support System was originally designed for healthcare mattresses and very successfully used over the past 20 years in treating patients needing a mattress that promotes healing and better posture support. The Serenity Series combines the Neutral Posture Pad with EcoMemoryFoam as the perfect way to "Refresh and Renew your Body."
